

IN THE WOMAN'S WORLD

Honolulu Milliners Getting Ready For Fall Hat Displays

Hats! Hats! Hats! Hats of all sorts, women who wear the tailor made, and shapes and prices. One particularly hand-some hat on the new shapes with their elaborate trimmings are really wonderful. There are styles and types that will become most of the fall. All of the hat shapes show the trimmings which will dominate this season. Feathers, ribbon and flowers will be used in the trimmings even in the late summer hats. The lines in most of the shapes vary and are irregular. The only difference in the styles in all of the millineries is that the individual taste of the buyer is brought out.

"The Milliner" says that the new hats are made to fit snugly on the head, and like the man's hat, are to be worn without the hatpin. A thing that is most injurious to the hat and any ribbon trimming that may be a part of it.

The hats are to be set well over the head, but not from the back. They will show the coils of hair from the back of the head. "The Milliner" also speaks of the maline hat which has up to this time found but little favor in the eyes of the women here. The large variety of shapes is one of the most pleasing features of the season's millinery. There are the large, medium and small shapes, though the preference is shown the large and small. Still the medium size will be worn by the women of mature years who usually cling to conventionality.

Crowns Mostly Low. Crowns are mostly low, though some of the local milliners show the high ones. Soft lines are adopted not only in the crowns but in the brims of the large portrait hats. The two local milliners who have up to the present time had their formal openings are Miss Grace Power and Jordan & Co. Miss Power has been in New York for the past three months, and recently returned to Honolulu with a most wonderful display of late summer and fall goods. Her hats are creations. The newest colorings that are shown in her rooms are in the fuchsia and the burnt shades. Her dress hats are mostly of the large shapes and are exquisitely beautiful with their soft lines. Many of her combinations are of black and gold, some in lace, others in chiffon, straws and velvet.

Unlike dwellers in many of the tropical countries, the people of Honolulu demand the same styles and materials as do their sisters who live in the colder climates. So the milliners as well as the importers have to conform to their tastes and bring to the city the felt and velvet hats that are in vogue on the mainland.

Although the majority of shapes shown in her parlors have the new and irregular lines, Miss Power has many of the chic derby sailors and small plush and velvet shapes that always find favor with the girls and men. One particularly hand-some hat on the new shapes with their elaborate trimmings are really wonderful. There are styles and types that will become most of the fall. All of the hat shapes show the trimmings which will dominate this season. Feathers, ribbon and flowers will be used in the trimmings even in the late summer hats. The lines in most of the shapes vary and are irregular. The only difference in the styles in all of the millineries is that the individual taste of the buyer is brought out.

With the opening of Jordan's comes a new milliner, Miss Cooke, who will hereafter be in charge of the millinery department of this big establishment. There are a goodly number of the late summer hats here that are not only dressy, but chic. There are a few of the toweling hats that are prettily trimmed with ribbon rosettes, but still prettier and newer are the little French straw shapes of black with the brim trimming of velvet ribbon of some contrasting color and a small spray of flowers. Jordan's has almost made a specialty of these very attractive hats for street wear. The velvet, moret and plush hats that are worn with the full suits are to be more elaborate this year than they have been for some time. The black and white models are the most popular, although the turquoise shades are introduced into many of the models. One very pretty hat is perfectly round with an upturned brim faced with black velvet. The crown and upper brim are of black and turquoise blue moret silk. There is no trimming on this shape save a band of the silk. This model would be particularly becoming to a blond. Another dainty model is an Oriental turban of black satin with a high ornament of black feathers at the front. This model, it seems to me, would be very becoming to the slight young miss. A few of the dress hats at this store are shown in the window display. One of the new little conceits in millinery shown on two or three of the hats is the drop tuck of chiffon. Some of these tucks are black like the hats while others are white. The dress hats are trimmed with feathers and flowers. There is any amount of feather trimming this season many of the ornaments being made from the ostrich feather. The prettiest dress models in Jordan's are black. One of these shows both the drop tuck and the wealth of large white flowers. Besides the many trimmed hats in this shop there are any amount of untrimmed shapes in the latest materials and modeled on the latest lines that are ready to be trimmed.

Many Tailor Modes Shown. Miss Atkinson of the Mary Ann Bonnet Shop, who has just returned from the mainland, shows many of the little tailormade. These are of felt and hatter's plush, that promises to be so much worn this fall. The two-toned effect is shown in many of these models as well as the browns that Paris says are to be in vogue. There are many of the black and white hats shown here that will delight the eye and fancy of the woman who keeps in touch with the latest fad. Although Miss Atkinson has had no formal opening, all of the new models are on display. Many of her hats have the rolling brim and have the ostrich and feather in the trimmings.

The under-brim trimming that is so popular is accentuated here with feather fancies. The French heads are popular here both for the under and the top trimming. These heads are beautifully fashioned and are a charming finish for any hat. Miss Atkinson also shows many of the shapes in white and in the light shades. There are one or two very pretty large felt shapes with the rolled brims, trimmed with a wide band of corded ribbon artistically draped with a modish bow at the under left side. Some of the most stylish dress models are of white hatter's plush, trimmed with feathers. Many of the shapes here are pink. One very pretty one is made affecting a full-blown rose with a French head at the side. This is not only a dainty model but also has a jaunty military effect. Miss Atkinson has in her show-case many of the latest novelties in hat trimmings.

Several Openings to Come. As yet Sachs, Ehlers & Co., and Milton & Parsons, have not had their openings. The milliners and Manager Lennox at Sachs are making great preparations for their opening which will take place in the course of the next fortnight. Sachs will play the black and white this season as well as the lighter colors that are worn by the Honoluluites the whole year round. They will also present the new velvet plush and felt models. Much of the under brim trimming of aigrettes will be in evidence here, too. They, like the other milliners both on the mainland and in Paris will show the small hat for every day wear and the large one for dress occasions. They also have a pretty assortment of the Oriental turbans. Some of the shapes with the large tan crowns will also be exhibited here.

Ehlers & Co. to Have Opening. Ehlers & Co. will have the formal opening in three weeks, and Miss Starky who is at the head of the millinery department says that there will be many exquisite models in the latest styles. The irregular lines will prevail here and the trimming will be largely constituted of feather fancies. The neumide fancy will be worn a great deal on the large and small dress hats as will be feathers. There is a fluff of feathers in all of the millinery establishments, still there are no two hats trimmed alike. Ehlers will show the rounded crown of medium height and width. As in the other stores the under brim trimming will be very much in evidence. Many of the new shapes here have the oblong effect, and when posed on the head have a dip to the right. Some of the prettiest dress models will be in a fiber and gold with a touch of black, while others that will be worn in the evening, will be of the new limeblown green. Many of the new winter evening gowns will also be of this shade. The primrose that was worn so much in the east last year is quite out, and in its place will be the new flame shade. This will be shown on a great many of the fall models in headgear. Ehlers has laid aside the willow plume for as the Hawaiians say it is pau. They also have in stock many of the new outing hats and motor bonnets in the lighter shades. One of the new trimmings that will be used here a great deal is the felt of ostrich feathers that will trim the under brim. Some of these are no more than half an inch wide while others are over two inches in width.

Mrs. Milton on Mainland. Mrs. Milton, of Milton & Parsons, is still on the mainland selecting more goods for her fall display. She has already sent here, however, many of the late summer models after which the fall hats are fashioned. Among these are all colors and each one has a different bit of trimming. These models are simple in style and before they are placed on the head are shaped like a paper bag. The scarcity and simplicity in the trimming on these shapes gives the wearer an exceedingly chic appearance. Some of the models for the suits have the tan crowns that extend to the brim of the hats. The trimmings on these are breasts. One of the prettiest models on this order is of burnt straw and is trimmed with a dark brown breast.

Mrs. Milton expects to arrive here some time next week and the new models will be on display shortly after her arrival.

RECREATIONS

FERRIS HARTMAN AND TROUPE HERE

Ferris Hartman, the comedian, and his troupe of singers and players reached town this morning on board the Pacific Mail liner China. Hartman and his company will remain here for three weeks, and will produce a series of comic operas and musical comedies at the opera house, beginning with the well-known success "The Night Off."

With Hartman are some of the best musical comedy performers on the coast. There is Minnie Davis, Walter DeLeon, composer as well as actor; Fred Bowers and others almost as well known. Special arrangements have been made for the opening of the three weeks season tomorrow night, and the stage of the opera house has been changed to meet the requirements of the Hartman productions.

The sale of seats continues at the promotion committee rooms in the Young building.

LOCAL ENGINEERS HEAR OF WONDERFUL DIESEL ENGINE

W. J. Dyer of the Honolulu Iron Works presented a paper last night before the Hawaiian Engineering Association on the Diesel engine. The gathering took place in the auditorium of the McKinley High School, about sixty being present.

The lecturer reported favorably on the Diesel engine, going into details as to its operation and the cost thereof. Among the other speakers were Aionzo Gantley and J. E. Sheedy, but of whom eulogized the Diesel engine, presenting highly interesting data and figures showing its economy of operation. They also laid stress on the facts that the Diesel engine produces the maximum of power with a less amount of cost, and that it utilizes lower grades of fuel than are generally used with the higher class of gasoline or oil engines.

WOMAN DIES 150 YEARS OLD

Manila Cable News-American, July 27.—An old woman, Paula Icano, has just died at San Antonio, Nueva Ecija, at an age that is said to be 150 years. The exact age is unknown, for the lack of church records, but even the oldest resident of the town cannot remember the old woman when she was under 75 or 80 years of age. As far as is known, none of her relatives survive. The last son died at the age of 88 years.

Mrs. Rose Curtis of New Haven claimed she was robbed at Hartford of $200 after being given knockout drops.

The first few puts in the "two-hand" shot made the event look like a cakewalk for the Americans, Nicklander, the Finn, was as nervous as a school-girl and he could not get his put out within two feet of his best record.

Rose and McDonald led by a comfortable margin up to the final round of three throws apiece. With all of the right-hand put out of the way the score stood: Rose, 15.23 meters, McDonald, 15.98, and Nicklander, 14.76.

Finn Takes Lead. On his very first left-hand effort in the finals the Finn laid out a beauty that overtopped the green flag of Rose and the yellow of McDonald by a couple of feet. The Finnish section let out a whoop and even Nicklander himself could not refrain from doing a few skittish steps as he moved away from the circle. Rose and McDonald, the Yankee giants, were now "in a hole."

Ralph sat on the bench and fidgeted himself nearly sick. He rubbed his hands with his handkerchief continually, and looked as worried as could be. McDonald was "going" too. He walked about in circles and did not wear the smile he generally wore. The crowd in tonight's jump, vault, put or throw.
